Public Service Recognition Week 2000

Public Service Recognition Week, May 1-7, is the time set aside to recognize and celebrate the invaluable service millions of public servants provide to this nation.

This year's theme is "Public Employees Working for America." We, as members of the Navy Supply team, make sure our Sailors and Marines get the parts and supplies they need to do their jobs. We ensure they are well fed and clothed, they get their mail and receive a host of other services that improve the quality of their lives as they serve around the world defending and protecting our Nation. Other public servants at all levels of government are doing what they do best...seeking cures for deadly diseases, designing superhighways and teaching our children, just to name a few. While our missions are diverse in nature, together we are working for America...helping make our nation a great place to live.

Please take some time this week to recognize the efforts of your coworkers and of all other public servants.

Thank you for your dedication and service. Keep up the good work!

Calling CWPO with your questions

By Jody Kann, on assignment to the Civilian Workforce Planning Office

You may have heard of the Civilian Workforce Planning Office (CWPO) and read about some of the ways its staffers are guiding the claimancy toward the 21st century.

They are doing this by describing the work force for 2005; comparing the current work force to that one; determining where "gaps" in staffing, skill assessment, and diversity occur; and building a plan to balance these gaps.

However, you may not know who specifically to contact on a particular subject.

The following is a brief list of the various CWPO responsibilities and a point of contact (POC) for each. Should you need assistance in any of these areas, please contact the individual assigned to that area.

New web-based system to allow expanded access to commercial suppliers

The Navy is developing a World Wide Web-based business process to improve fleet supply support by reducing order processing time, minimizing costs, and streamlining the supply chain.

To achieve this, the Naval Supply Systems Command and its largest field activity, the Naval Inventory Control Point, are developing a One Touch Portal to expand the capabilities of the existing One Touch Support system.

One Touch Support is a web-based system that allows users access to a multitude of Navy and Defense Logistics Agency supply, logistics, and quality of life databases. Users can check the availability of parts and supplies, order them, and track the status of their requisitions.

The portal concept is an electronic single point of entry that will link Navy users to federal contractors from whom supply and logistics products and services are already purchased, as well as sources in the commercial marketplace. It will allow Navy buyers to review a wider range of supplier offerings online.

The system will include screening processes to guarantee that supplies and services meet pre-established criteria and that they are available prior to being ordered.

The goal is to implement the portal concept by summer.

To support this effort, NAVICP is establishing a new business unit that will focus on enhancing the Navy's use of electronic commerce on the Internet for logistics support.

This initiative is part of NAVSUP's "One-Touch Supply" strategic vision.

Some of what we're buying for the fleet

The following high-dollar value contracts were let recently by Naval Supply Systems Command claimancy activities.

The contracts represent but a small portion of the contracts worked and let on an almost daily basis by claimancy contracting offices.

They are being highlighted here because the information is released routinely to the public and to highlight some of the claimancy's continuing efforts related to fleet support.

The Naval Inventory Control Point is purchasing radar receivers and radar data processors in support of the AN/APG-73 radar used on F/A-18 aircraft.

It is also buying such items as turbine nozzles, exhaust casings, and nozzle sectors for Navy CH-46D, Navy H-3, and Marine Corps CH-46E helicopters.

These contracts are posted on the DoD home page at www.defenselink.gov.

Assistant Deputy Under Secretary of Defense talks Supply Chain Integration

By Robin Kisler, on assignment to the Public Affairs Office

Addressing a Naval Supply Systems Command All Hands meeting, James T. Eccleston, Assistant Deputy Under Secretary of Defense (Logistics), spoke recently on the topic of Supply Chain Integration.

Eccleston visited here April 17. He addressed the issue of 'Where are we going with supply chain?' and he emphasized the importance of the Logistic Strategic Plan.

The Logistics Vision for 2006 is to have a joint logistics process that will be a highly efficient and integrated system. This envisioned system would encompass several goals. These are insuring required support to the war fighter, satisfying customer requirements at point of need, replacing infrastructure with agility and rapid transportation, applying commercial practices and partnering with commercial sector, reducing cycle times to meet dynamic war-fighting requirements, and retaining only organizational echelons demonstrating added value to the war fighter.

In order to reach this vision the Supply Chain is required to incorporate new organizational structures and leadership practices to promote speed in decision making at the point of contact with the customer.

This involves accelerating the deployment of real-time Information Technology (IT) architectures enterprisewide and maximizing trade across supply. The new endeavors will link to the budget and include performance measures on how we will achieve this plan, along with what type of metrics will be used.

Eccleston advised us to follow the industry lead in IT architecture. He said, "Take advantage of what the business community is doing and whatever standard they are using we ought to be a part of it." He also commented on the NAVSUP Enterprise Resource Planning Project, saying it was an outstanding start to integrating different information sources for making better decisions.

He also stressed that the government has a responsibility to educate the work force and expose employees to new tools. However, the employee has the responsibility to question "Is there a better way?" Everyone, from our leaders down, needs to become a knowledge transfer agent, sharing our experiences with others and we all should be keeping track of how many billable hours we contribute to the government, he said. He asked for focus on the value we produce.

Eccleston emphasized we are in a "new climate for taking risks in government." This is an "opportunity for those of us who work for the government to really produce a public value product."

For his part, he has taken action to implement a Supply Chain Integration Award to honor individuals who have had new supply chain techniques implemented.

To learn more about the Supply Chain Integration Office and educational seminars it hosts, visit the web page at www.acq.osd.mil/log/sci.

Tentative decision reached in FISC Norfolk Contract Support Administration study

The Naval Supply Systems Command announced April 13 that the Navy will retain in house the Contract Support Administration functions at the Fleet and Industrial Supply Center (FISC) Norfolk, Va.

This decision is the result of a competitive study conducted in accordance with streamlined cost comparison procedures of Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76.

The FISC Norfolk study included a review of civilian positions that perform Contract Support Administration functions in all departments throughout the command. The government's proposal calls for a work force of 41 civilian employees.

The decision to retain the operation in house was made after the streamlined cost comparison indicated it was more cost effective to continue to perform the functions with government personnel.

Career employees adversely affected by a commercial activities study decision will be given maximum assistance in continuing their federal careers through reassignment to other positions in the Department of Defense or other agencies.

Those employees will also be assisted, in cooperation with the Department of Labor and State employment services, in locating positions in private industry or afforded opportunities to undertake retraining programs to qualify them for jobs available in local labor markets.

Tentative decision reached in FISC Norfolk General and Administrative Support study

The Naval Supply Systems Command announced April 13 that the Navy will retain in house the General and Administrative Support functions at the Fleet and Industrial Supply Center (FISC) Norfolk, Va.

This decision is the result of a competitive study conducted in accordance with streamlined cost comparison procedures of Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76.

The FISC Norfolk study included a review of civilian positions that perform General and Administrative Support functions in all departments throughout the command. The government's proposal calls for a work force of 39 civilian employees.

The decision to retain the operation in house was made after the streamlined cost comparison indicated it was more cost effective to continue to perform the functions with government personnel.

Career employees adversely affected by a commercial activities study decision will be given maximum assistance in continuing their federal careers through reassignment to other positions in the Department of Defense or other agencies.

Those employees will also be assisted, in cooperation with the Department of Labor and State employment services, in locating positions in private industry or afforded opportunities to undertake retraining programs to qualify them for jobs available in local labor markets.

Looking ahead to May

Mark your calendars for May 31 to join your co-workers at the Mechanicsburg Defense Activities Spring Quality Symposium, planners ask.

"Change Strategies for the New Century" will be the half-day forum theme at the Officers' Club.

Great speakers and refreshments are only part of what's on the day's agenda, according to planners. You may even come face to face with a moose!

Look for reservation information in the next issue of the Supplier. For more information now, contact Joyce Sheesley at Ext. 2178.

Battle of Midway to be commemorated

Last year Chief of Naval Operations outlined his goal for preserving and building upon our rich naval heritage and announced a plan to celebrate annually the two most prominent days of our Navy's past, our birthday, 13 October 1775, and the anniversary of the Battle of Midway, 4 June 1942, a recent Navy message from the Vice Chief of Naval Operations states.

"The courage, sacrifice, heroism and teamwork of every Sailor in that pivotal battle for the Pacific during World War II warrant our study, emulation and reverence," the message released by ADM D.L. Pilling continues.

"Although we can identify equal acts of selflessness and bravery throughout our 224 year history, Midway is unique in that on the shoulders of the courageous Sailors who fought there, rested the fate of the Pacific and possibly the world.

"The Battle of Midway epitomizes the war-fighting spirit that on a daily basis we strive to demonstrate in the Adriatic and off the coast of Iraq.

"This June we will mark the first Battle of Midway commemoration where we will hold events to honor the Navy of yesterday and the Sailors who laid the foundation for our Navy's greatness today," the message continues.

Midway Night 2000 will center around 4 June 2000, the 58th anniversary of commencement of the battle.

The Naval Historical Center has added a Midway Night information page to its web site (www.history.navy.mil). This site includes Battle of Midway general info, points of contact, and info on Midway veterans groups.

Tennis players needed

After an exciting 1999 season in which Bob Graham's Acers won the ALMECH Team Tennis League Championship, the league is preparing for the new millennium by recruiting additional players for the summer of 2000.

The league, which operates from June through September, is open to all base employees, including military and retirees.

There are positions for players of all skill levels, so don't be shy. If you enjoy chasing a little yellow ball like the rest of us, contact any of the following team captains for more information/sign-up: Robert Petrie, Ext. 7308; Bob Graham, Ext. 1747; Mark Rockwell, Ext. 4639; or Sam Fisher, Ext. 4289.

Fleet Material Support Office

Double congratulations...

CDR Thomas J. Leonard, right, receives congratulations from CAPT Bill Bristow, Fleet Material Support Office Commanding Officer, following a ceremony at which he was awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal (Gold Star in lieu of Second Award) for meritorious service as the Requiring Financial Manager, In Service Support Financial Management Department, Assistant Commander for Logistics, Naval Air Systems Command, Patuxent River, Md., from November 1996 to September 1999. Additional praise is extended to Leonard on his recent promotion to the rank of commander.

Helping hand extended

Habitat for Humanity benefits...

Brian Shunk, President of Habitat for Humanity of the Greater Harrisburg Area, receives a $1,500 check from LCDR Tae Lee, left, and CDR Brian Wenger. The two presented the check on behalf of the Officers' Spouses' Club and the Mechanicsburg Supply Corps Association following the groups' Charity Auction that set records for attendance and funds raised. Additionally, the groups donated $5,000 to the Supply Corps Scholarship Fund to benefit deserving children who have parents in the Navy and who are pursuing higher education.

First Navy-Marine Corps Relief drawing coming soon

Armed Forces Day

Flyovers set at Gap

The Central Pennsylvania area's annual Armed Forces Day open house will take place at Fort Indiantown Gap on Saturday, May 20.

Admission to the open house and parking are free.

The day will feature military and other demonstrations and displays, live music, a dance, and fireworks.

Exhibits and displays will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. At 10:30 a.m. there will be a formal opening ceremony featuring an "Artillery Salute to the Nation."

The displays will include various tracked and wheeled vehicles, including an Abrams tank, and other military hardware, weapons, and aircraft.

At 11 a.m. A-10 Warthog jet aircraft from the 111th Air National Guard at Willow Grove will perform a flyover. From 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., Army National Guard helicopters will perform flying demonstrations.

The 553rd Air National Guard Band and the 276th Army National Guard Band will perform in the morning and afternoon, respectively.

Food, beverages, and snacks will be available for sale at a food court throughout the day.

From 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. there will be a WWII style USO Dance at the gap's Hilltop Club. Admission to the dance is $5 a person and includes beer. Food and soft drinks will be available for a donation, and mixed drinks will be sold at a cash bar. Reservations are required and may be made by calling 861-2936.

Combined Federal Campaign involves year-round effort

New leadership and new people are undertaking the challenge of planning for this year's Combined Federal Campaign (CFC).

Jerry Thomas, Deputy Director, Submarine Support Directorate in the Naval Inventory Control Point, has been named the Mechanicsburg CFC Council Chairperson. In 1999, he served as the Vice Chair under the CFC Council Chair, Ruth Sanders, Executive Director of the Fleet Material Support Office.

Thomas held his first CFC Council meeting in March. Representatives from most base commands and the American Federation of Government Employees (AFGE), Local 1156, attended.

In recent interviews, Rocky Morrill, President, AFGE, Local 1156, and Thomas shared their thoughts about the CFC. Morrill and Thomas have been supporters of the CFC, one way or another, for a long time.

According to CFC records, the 1999 Mechanicsburg CFC was the most successful campaign ever. When asked what factors contributed to that success, Morrill replied, "Our employees see the need of others. The United States is one of the most benevolent countries there is. We always dig into our pockets for people or organizations who are in need."

"There is a great need to participate and contribute to the CFC. The need often times appears to be quite distant. However, more and more, we're seeing the need right here in our own work force and in our local area. We, each of us, through the CFC can have an opportunity to make a difference," said Thomas.

This year's campaign is expected to include 1,000 charitable organizations as participants. "The great thing about the CFC is that you can designate where you want your money to go," Morrill said.

As the CFC Council Chair, Thomas has plans to build upon last year's success. "I would like to see increased communication between CFC key workers and potential givers. From that we're hopeful that we can come up with some ideas or initiatives that might serve as a catalyst for people being more inspired to give," Thomas said.

The Mechanicsburg CFC will

When asked why the CFC is important, Thomas says, "The CFC is an opportunity to show there is compassion and there is commitment toward supporting those who may be less fortunate or in need."

Morrill summed his thoughts up by saying, "The CFC makes us stop and look at where we are, what we are and who we are and I think that's a good theme ... CFC, the time of giving makes us look at ourselves."

The CFC Council meets monthly throughout the year. ### June logistics, acquisition event set Redstone Arsenal, Ala. — "Building Together for the 21st Century" will be the theme for the Government Industry Supportability Engineering Exchange (GISEE) Symposium to be held June 20-22 at the John J. Sparkman Center here.

Those involved in logistics and acquisition are invited to obtain information at Army Materiel Command's Logistics Support Activity's (LOGSA's) home page: www.logpars.army.mil/alc/logengr.htm.

This year's registration fee is $50 until June 1, at which time the price will rise to $75.

Some keynoters scheduled to be participating are Louis Kratz and Dr. Nancy Spruill from the Under Secretary of Defense. There will also be a presentation on ISO 9000 changes.

Questions may be directed to Emerson McAfee at DSN 645-0808, comm. (256) 955-0808, fax 645-9865, or via e-mail to emerson.mcafee@logsa.army.mil.
